Married Life the Second Year

By Mabel Herbert Under

"Oh, isn't he a dear! Isn't he the dearest dog!" as a big Newfoundland bounded out of the surf, a stick in his mouth, and tossed it down to Warren. Warren pulled Helen back roughly as she bent over to take the stick. "What are you all well? There—see you?" as the dog shook himself spraying her white gown with water. "Why didn't you just get over every day?"

"Oh, but he's so lovely! Look, how he's taking the stick to his master!"

The dog seeing he would receive no further attention from them ran to the master, who was standing a little farther back on the beach. The dog dropped the stick, barked about and finally wagged his tail.

Helen watched him delightedly. She was almost childish in her love of animals.

The man picked up the stick and once more he took it to his master. He was a young man, the one who had been with Helen since she was a child. A great wave almost swept him under, but he struggled up, and then he saw Helen and Warren.

There was a sudden smothered exclamation from Warren, and then, with a look of surprise, he saw Helen.

"What! That boy's drowning!" he had of his shoes and coat and was in the surf, swimming rapidly toward the boy who was struggling.

CITY SHOULD DEMAND PERFORMANCE OF CONTRACT

In offering the Grand Trunk Pacific exemption from taxation for the largest part of the value of their hotel site, the citizens of Edmonton made a mistake which, in view of the natural anxiety for a metropolitan hotel in the city, is partly excusable and easily explainable.

But when the city officials who made the deal failed to provide that the company's exemption be made conditional upon their commencing construction at once they failed lamentably in their official capacity as protectors of the city's interests.

According to the deal, the company has eighteen months in which to complete the hotel. Considering that the company has wasted a whole season without making even an appearance of commencing construction, it is quite within reason to presume that the company did not secure this exemption with any intention of exercising it for present purposes, but merely took advantage of the psychological moment to reach out and grasp an exemption, the advantages of which the company might enjoy at its leisure, trusting that the city would, through good nature, grant the necessary extensions.

The business of the city council right now should be to notify the Grand Trunk Pacific that unless the hotel is complete within the eighteen months specified in the agreement the privileges granted to it under the exemption bylaw are forfeited. If the company cannot carry out its share of a bargain in which the city favors them with an exemption from land tax, a favor which has been extended to no other company or individual since Edmonton adopted its present system, then the company should not expect the city to still further violate the taxation principles on which Edmonton is operating by gratuitously making the company a recipient of a special privilege such as no other concern has had the effrontery to ask.

PREMIER'S PROMPT DENIAL FORTUNATE FOR LIBERALISM

It is indeed fortunate for the liberal party that Premier Sifton is in a position to unhesitatingly deny the report that he has had W. H. Cushing's resignation in his hands since before the recent bye-elections.

Cushing is a hypocrite and a fake. He has been caught with the goods. His presence in the liberal party is a disgrace to the party. His hypocrisy and corruption are so thoroughly established that no elector in Calgary could possibly cast a liberal vote without a mental shudder at the accessory guiltiness of the party which permits him to continue as an elected representative of that city. Until the party is purged of his presence it must pay a terrible cost in public confidence for the indifference which allows him to remain.

To allow him to be considered a representative after a guilty conscience and fear of punishment had driven him to handing in his resignation would be a crime against liberalism too serious to be excused on any grounds whatever. It is fortunate for the party and for the premier that he is able to give his prompt assurance that such is not the case.

MR. BORDEN A NATURAL CONSERVATIVE

As indicated by the speech from the throne, it is Mr. Borden's intention to go forward with the appointment of a tariff commission.

Mr. Borden's idea is essentially conservative and does him credit as an evidence of his straight-line conservatism. To take the tariff out of the hands of parliament altogether and place it in the hands of a commission which is responsible to nobody in particular and in the appointment of which the people who pay the taxes will have no voice is a reversion to the ideas which cost George III the half of the North American continent. Taxation without representation means the same today as it did in 1776.

There never was yet since the day representative government was inaugurated a conservative who did not believe that the affairs of any country could be better administered by some body of irresponsibles on whom was conferred an appointive power. The fact that a man naturally, sub-consciously and spontaneously believes such to be the case is the evidence that he is a conservative. Were he not imbued with these ideas he could not be a conservative.

Mr. Borden is a natural conservative.

ONE OF THE HANDICAPS OF BEING A CONSERVATIVE

Alderman Hyndman suggests in council that the city will never be able to get competent men to accept the position of commissioner until the aforesaid competent men can be assured that there is some permanency about the position.

Surely Alderman Hyndman has forgotten. When the council tried to dismiss Commissioner Bouillon they discovered that it could not be done in less than six months and not until after an appeal to the supreme court, at an expense to themselves of $86.50 each. What greater permanency does Alderman Hyndman want than this?

The idea which has possessed the minds of the majority of the ratepayers for some months is that there is altogether too much permanency in the office around the city hall. An arrangement which would make an official's tenure of office just exactly for that period during which the public was satisfied with his service would be more like the thing.

Being a conservative, Alderman Hyndman, of course never will be able to catch this point of view.

Ladies' Fur Coats at Less Than Manufacturer's Cost

WE HAVE THREE PERSIAN LAMB COATS, 10 inches long and three Near Seal Coats, 36 inches long to offer Saturday at less than manufacturers' cost; these Coats are made from selected whole skins and are perfect in every way; they carry the same guarantee from us as the most expensive coat we sell. We have nothing more to say about them, excepting that had they been made 50 miles longer they would really have cost for $300.00 each, and the Near Seal Coats for $100.00 each. Possibly you are one who prefers the shorter lengths. If this is so, then this is the greatest opportunity you will ever have—for we will mark the Persian Lamb Coats each $60.00 and the Near Seal, each $50.00

RETURNING OFFICER'S EXPENSES WILL PASS THE $17,000 MARK

Cost of Dominion Election in Edmonton Riding Will Be Greater Than in Any Other Constituency in Canada—Some Reasons Why

A sum of from $17,000 to $20,000 will be required to cover the expenses of the returning officer in the federal constituency of Edmonton in connection with the election held on September 21. Upon the most conservative estimate, based upon the schedule of fees provided in the Dominion election act, the cost of election will be $17,000, but in many items of expenditure the maximum legal allowance was found far from adequate. In view of it, the cost of the election in Edmonton will be an election in the widely scattered area which comprises the riding. The expenses of the election in Edmonton will in all likelihood be greatly in excess of those of any other constituency in the Dominion.

The returning officer's expenses in 1908 were $2,000. There were at that time 115 polling divisions as compared with 218 in the election of a couple of months ago. The movement of population in the Dominion has been such that the number of the new communities in the Peace River country and at Grande Prairie important factors in the poll of Alberta. In the city of Edmonton also the number of polling divisions "was almost twice as large in 1911 as in 1908."

For elections in Alberta and Saskatchewan the Dominion elections act provides for a returning officer's fee of $2 per poll in constituencies where the divisions are in excess of thirty. For the 118 in Edmonton riding the fee is $238.

Church in Boston. He remained in church only three years, when, upon the death of Bishop Hendricken of Providence, he was elected to the bishopric. He has held this allowance of 5 cents per mile is made. The returning officer's expenses in Edmonton will swell the total figures by a very large sum. There is a natural tendency among these officials to make a large showing on the mileage account. The travelling expenses of all officials in the outlying portions of the constituency will probably amount to a figure greatly in excess of the statutory allowance. Application will be made for an increase from the Dominion authorities.

There are various other items in the bill which help to swell the total figure. Screens for use in the polling booth are supposed to cost $1.50 for the first and $1.00 for any extra. In the late election as many as five screens were used in some of the divisions, and the cost of each screen was from $3 to $2. The act allows $2 for the employment of a constable in polling divisions where police surveillance is required; the item for the swearing in of each poll clerk before and after the polls is $1, for taking the polls (to deputy returning officers), $1 in each case, for the services of poll clerk, $2, for interpreters, $2 each, for actual expenses incurred for use of polling station, not more than $5. Interpreters required for the assistance of enumerators also receive a fee of $2. Deputy returning officers and poll clerks receive 15 cents a mile for delivering ballot boxes to a returning officer appointed by the returning officer.

Requisition has been made on the clerk of the crown in chancery for $10,000 to cover the payment of accounts which had been sent in to the returning officer a week ago. No draft has yet been received, and none of the election officials is stated have received payment for their services from the Dominion authorities.

ELECTION MAY NOT BE NECESSARY

PREMIER SUTTON SAYS CLAUSE 17 REGARDING ALCOHOLISM'S TERM OF OFFICE MAY BE PASSED

It is altogether improbable that municipal elections will be held either in Edmonton or Strathcona this year.

Premier Sutton stated yesterday that he had not been approached by the civic authorities in regard to the early passage of the one clause bill to extend the term of office of the present council until the end of January, but that a bill of a more cautious nature might be passed early in the session.

The premier intimated that a bill of this character might not deal with either the debate on the speech from the throne. As the session does not commence until Thursday, November 20, it is unlikely that the one clause bill can be carried before municipal confirmation on the following Monday but unless unforeseen circumstances should intervene, before the municipal election day a bill will definitely have become law.

The bill for the amalgamation of the cities of Edmonton and Strathcona may be dealt with at a convenient time later in the session.

CAMROSE MEMBERS TO HUNT MOOSE

"CROSE" CITY IS NOW TRYING AN ERA OF PROSPERITY. NO HOUSES TO RENT

Accompanied by A. A. Mowbray, head of the electric light and water works department of Camrose, and J. E. Cook, manager of the Mohawk's bank, George P. Smith, M.P.P., for the Camrose district, is in Edmonton to see Mr. Smith to secure a house that will suit his needs.

"Things are going on in Camrose just now," said Mr. Smith to a Capital reporter at the King Edward hotel this morning. "I am in and in the month in my capacity as member of the legislature. It is nearly a holiday here but will last until the date of the opening of the session."

Speaking of conditions in Camrose at the moment, Mr. Smith said that everything was very promising. All available accommodation in the town is taken up by new families coming in to get houses. There is not an empty room or house in the place, he said. The future of the town looks better than ever.

JUDGMENT FOR PLAINTIFF.

Judgment was given in Superior court yesterday afternoon in favor of the plaintiffs in the action of Sassa and Williams against Robert Kelly. The plaintiffs brought a claim for $1000 from Kelly for a period of four years amounting to pay $250 per year in addition to royalty on the coal sold to him. The court found that the plaintiffs had the right to sell the coal and that the defendants had not.

The provincial department of agriculture has acquired an additional portion of land in the section of the province established there in the spring.

APPLYING FOR HOTEL LICENSE

NORTH EDMONTON CENSUS SHOWS IT HAS OVER 5000 INHABITANTS

Application for a special liquor license in the center of North Edmonton will be made by Joseph Martel at a session of the license commissioners in the afternoon of November 25.

The temperance and moral reform league will oppose the application on the ground that it is not required.

Last year, it will be remembered, a similar application was made, and last year the license commissioners in North Edmonton and very able to satisfy the board that the population was not large enough to justify a second license according to law. Since then the village has grown at a very rapid rate.

No second license may be granted in a village whose population fall short of 501, while the commissioners prefer that the population should be in the neighborhood of 750. According to a reliable census taken during the fall this total has been surpassed. The official census taken by the Dominion government, however, gives North Edmonton a population of just 204.

RATEPAYER ASKS CITY FOR DAMAGES

DECLINES THAT IMPROVEMENT OF SECOND STREET INJURES HIS PROPERTY—WANTS $2000

Local talk almost caused a total meeting of all other business at the meeting of the city commissioners yesterday afternoon. One of the ratepayers did manage to crowd themselves in between speeches. That an investigation of the improvement of the second street should be made by the property owners under the demand of a village whose population fall short of 501, while the commissioners prefer that the population should be in the neighborhood of 750. According to a reliable census taken during the fall this total has been surpassed. The official census taken by the Dominion government, however, gives North Edmonton a population of just 204.

When the city commissioners report to the city council about the proposition of the Dawson and Company to sell to the city its coal property and its coal claim, there will be no recommendation that the property be purchased or anything like it. Such is the effect of the proposition offered by the Dawson company in regard to this matter. The tender of the company was referred to the city commissioners and they passed it to the council. The council referred it back to the commissioners with a request for a fuller and detailed report. The fuller and detailed report will be the subject of the commissioners and were said to put any proposition they might have in writing. Hence the tender claim and it cannot be said that the city is desirous for the purchase of a claim in this particular instance.

WILL ERECT CLUBHOUSE.

At a meeting of members of the Edmonton Conservative association, Conservative club and Young Men's Conservative club, held in the Craig Hotel last evening, it was decided to proceed with the construction of a new social club, the site on Fourth street, south of the new garage, being chosen as the most desirable location. Reports from the committees in whose care the arrangements have been placed, were received, and with some modifications adopted.

Tomorrow evening in the Old Exchange Mart on McEwan avenue south, a sale of work will be held by the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Presbyterian church. Special music will be one of the attractions of the evening.

Gas Plant Extended.

McNaughton Bros. of Glasgow had a communication before the board asking that they be permitted to submit tenders on a station for the city's new gas plant. Another mention of the gas plant was made when a Toronto builder wrote recommending Mr. William Sutherland for the position of gas works superintendent or manager. The letters were read. Edmonton's gas plant is now in the hands of the city engineers, that department having been asked to prepare estimates of cost etc.)

Police Have Ambulance.

owing to the addition of new units to the operations at the hall No. 2 and there being no room for the ambulance at the hall, it has been moved to the new hall with the care and operation of this utility.

Mrs. Margaret Myers of New York, formerly Saskatchewan, is seeking her son, Mrs. Alice Campbell who was last heard of at Camrose. Mrs. Campbell is entitled to some money from the estate of a late brother and Mrs. Myers is anxious that she should receive it.

WILL HOLD THREE COURT MARTIALS

INQUIRY INTO THE STRANDING OF THE NOBLE OPENS IN HALIFAX THIS MORNING

Halifax, Nov. 16.—The court martial into the stranding of the Subie last summer which opened yesterday, has become a matter of much local interest. Naval circles have been discussing whether the inquiry would be first covering the whole case or whether there would be separate trials for each officer who might be considered responsible for the occurrence. It has been decided that there shall be three separate trials.

The first to be taken up will be that of Master British, the officer of the watch when the cruiser struck on the southwestern ledge of Cape Sable at the end of July after some days spent in Yarmouth in connection therewith.

Then the court martial will take up the case of Naval Captain, Lieutenant White and when this is disposed of the court will finally try Commander W. J. MacDonnell. It is announced that Captain Clinton Baker, of H.M.S. Hereward will be president of the court martial and that with him will be the four most junior to that officer. The court martial will convene on board the Subie which is anchored in the stream. The proceedings are announced as open to the public, but the accommodation in the case of the Subie will not be more than sufficient for the press and those officials whose duty it is to be present.

PRICE OF COAL MINE TOO HIGH

COMMISSIONERS CONSIDER FIGURE ASKED BY DAWSON COMPANY IS AN EXCESSIVE ONE

When the city commissioners report to the city council about the proposition of the Dawson and Company to sell to the city its coal property and its coal claim, there will be no recommendation that the property be purchased or anything like it. Such is the effect of the proposition offered by the Dawson company in regard to this matter. The tender of the company was referred to the city commissioners and they passed it to the council. KUBELIK'S ADVICE TO PUPILS

The standard of violin playing has steadily increased of late years which is not surprising when one considers the enormous increase of students from all nations steadily, for years, devoting hours daily to mastering the intricacies of the instrument.

Paganini's command of technique, which so astounded the world in his day that it was attributed to the influence of the "Evil One," must now be considered part of the equipment of every modern virtuoso.

"Artists are born, not made," but the greatest natural abilities require a tremendous amount of hard work and steady, intelligent application to develop them to their fullest extent. "I have known many brilliant students who have given great promise in their early days quite far behind in the race for fame and fortune by the loss naturally gifted but more diligent companions.

"The greater difficulty of the modern violinist is to be able to interpret the works of all the great masters, as the excellent is called upon to master so many different styles.

"Every composer has his own individuality, and when writing for the violin he naturally imbues the composition with his own executive ideas, or in other words, as he hears the imaginary sounds of the instrument, floating through his brain. The excellent must understand what the master intended and endeavor to render the music as a composer felt it.

"As each great composer had a different idea of the individuality of the violin, this means great study for the violinist, as the tone to be produced in, say, a composition by Beethoven, requires quite a different manipulation of the bowing and finger pressure than in a piece by Saint-Saens, and a still greater contrast, to those is contained in the work of Paganini.

"The student should procure as good a violin as possible, care being taken that the tone is pleasant to the ear. Nothing is more trying to the nervous system than unpleasant sounds.

The tone of a violin greatly depends upon its strings and the proper placing of the bridge and sound-post. The sound-post is the little wooden pillar inside the instrument situated about a quarter of an inch behind the right foot of the bridge. Should the bridge or sound-post be only slightly out of place, the finest "Strad" will sound like a $2 fiddle.

"I would recommend all possessors of violins to have them examined by an expert in order that the best results may be obtained. My experience is that most violins can be improved by paying attention to these details.

"I have known students almost driven to despair and use of weeks of work in vain endeavor to produce certain notes with a pure tone, not knowing that the difficulty arose from defects of the instrument, probably the bridge, or post, being slightly out of place, or the bad quality of strings.

"It is false economy to play too long without changing strings, as a string, after being used for a certain time, refuses to respond to the student's intonation, and time is lost by unnecessarily repeating a phrase.

"Beginners should commence their studies with a competent teacher as good progress can only be made on a proper foundation, and bad habits, once acquired are difficult to eradicate. So commence properly.

"When practicing, the mind must be entirely concentrated on the work in hand. If the thoughts are allowed to wander, no good result will follow, and consequently, it is not advisable to play too long without a rest.

"When the student feels his brain refuses to grip he must stop at once. Each individual should arrange his studies to suit his physique and on no account continue his exercises when his brain is tired. I strongly advise all students to avoid physical culture, avoiding exercises which tend to stiffen the wrist and interfere with the flexibility of the fingers.

Kubelik plays here November 22, assisted by Eva Mybott, the distinguished Australian contralto.

THE BOSTONIANS.

Neater, completer and sweeter than ever before, were the Juvenile Bostonians, who came to the Empire last night. This highly talented organization seems to improve with age into the proverbial wisdom. The play was a tuneful little Irish musical comedy, "The Rose of Blarney," and was admirably suited to the art never respect. There were lots of pretty songs, in fact all the singing was good, but an interpolated song, "On the Banks of the Saskatchewan," from the Pink Lady, having a local flavor and being new made the hit of the evening. It was admirably sung by Mr. Thompson

Helen, who also sang "Wild Irish Rose" very acceptably, towards the end of the second act. Doris Canfield and Patsy Henry were the comedians of the company, and in solo duet they made the tone is pleasant to the ear. Nothing is more trying to the nervous system than unpleasant sounds.

form, but the foundation must be laid through competent schooling in early girlhood and that is what we hope to provide in the new bureau for young women soon to open here in Constantinople.

This magnificent institution, surrounded by beautiful grounds, on a healthy and striking site of Candilid near the metropolis, at the first of its kind in Turkey, owes its origin almost entirely to the enthusiastic efforts of Ahmed Riza Bey, who secured from the deceased Abdul Hamid, while the latter was still in possession of vast wealth, a gift of the valuable land on which the building is erected. To his untiring efforts likewise is due the final raising of the 60,000 Turkish pounds necessary to carry out the design. The school will provide board and instruction to several hundred girls and the best European teachers have been secured. That it represents one of the most important steps in Turkish progress of today goes without saying, and its founder has reason for the satisfaction he takes in the final accomplishment of his purpose.

Average Turk Not Polygamous
"It is a common error of Europeans," he went on, "that they believe the average Turk to be polygamous. Indeed, he is not. The old-fashioned Turkish society, and those mostly men of high official position or of exceptional wealth. It is true that the Koran permits a Mohammedan four legal wives. The prophet himself had seven, and one of his successors, Ali, exceeded him by taking nine—but considering themselves above the restrictive law applied to their followers in general. But the possession of the maximum number of spouses allowed by the Moslem religion has not been widely taken advantage of for the simple reason that it is a luxury few can afford. According to the Koran if a man marries again he must provide his new wife with a separate establishment in all respects similar to that enjoyed by his first wife—a law intended to do away with the jealousy and bitterness that would otherwise inevitably arise between the rival matrons.

Naval Battle Imminent
Milan, Nov. 16.—A naval battle between fifty Italian warships and the Turkish squadron is imminent in the Aegean Sea. According to reports received here today the two hostile fleets were lying near each other with the Italian fleet was last heard from off the island of Mytilene. The Turkish fleet has been cruising among the Turkish islands off the coast to protect them from Italian aggression.

United States Senate against astraities by army in Tripoli was received by cable today from the high committee for aid to Tripoli at Cairo.

The protest declares that "Astraities are being committed by the Italian army against an inoffensive population of aged men, women and children," and declares that "Persons alleged to be rebels but who are simply defending their native soil against a foreign invasion, are being executed."

Constantinople, Nov. 17.—It is reported here that 6,000 Arabs attacked the old quarter of Tripoli yesterday and almost annihilated the Italian left wing. The survivors are retreating within the fortifications. Two hundred Italians were killed in the engagement according to advices received here.

"A Turkish mother of position leaves the care of her children to servants," he continued. "She takes no active part in the government of her household. She has been brought up to think that the preservation of physical charms is her main reason for being. European housewives would be amazed by the contrast of luxury and slovenliness, of ease and discomfort in a Turkish household. It is true that a higher kind of education will accomplish a beneficial re-
